World Conference on Natural Disaster Reduction, Yokohama, 1994; Strategy for the Year 2000 and Beyond

The World Conference, based on adoption of the principles and the assessment of the progress accomplished during the first half of the Decade, has formulated a strategy for disaster reduction centred on the objective of saving human lives and protecting property. The strategy calls for an accelerated implementation of a Plan of Action to be developed from the following points:

- A. Development of a global culture of prevention as an essential component of an integrated approach to disaster reduction.
- B. Adoption of a policy of self-reliance in each vulnerable country and community comprising capacity-building as well as allocation and efficient use of resources.
- C. Education and training in disaster prevention, preparedness and mitigation.
- D. Development and strengthening of human resources and material capabilities and capacity of research and development institutions for disaster reduction and mitigation.
- E. Identification and networking of existing centres of excellence so as to enhance disaster prevention, reduction and mitigation activities.
- F. Improvement of awareness in vulnerable communities, through a more active and constructive role of the media in respect of disaster reduction.
- G. Involvement and active participation of the people in disaster reduction, prevention and preparedness, leading to improved risk management.
- H. In the second half of the decade, emphasis should be given to programmes that promote community-based approaches to vulnerability reduction.
- I. Improved risk assessment, broader monitoring and communication of forecasts and warnings.
- J. Adoption of integrated policies for prevention of, preparedness for, and response to, natural disasters and other disaster situations including environmental and technological hazards.
- K. Improved co-ordination and co-operation among ongoing national, regional and international disaster research activities, at universities, regional and subregional organisations and other technical and scientific institutions, having in mind that links between causes and effects, inherent to all types of disaster, should be investigated through interdisciplinary research.
- L. Effective national legislation and administrative action, higher priority at the political decision-making level.
- M. Placing higher priority on the compilation and exchange of information on natural disaster reduction, especially at regional and subregional levels, through the strengthening of existing mechanisms and improved use of communications techniques.

- N. Promotion of regional and sub-regional co-operation between countries exposed to the same natural hazards through exchange of information, joint disaster reduction activities and other formal or informal means including the establishment or strengthening of regional and sub-regional centres.
- O. Making available the existing technology for broader application to disaster reduction.
- P. Integration of the private sector in disaster reduction efforts through promotion of business opportunities.
- Q. Promotion of the involvement of non-government organisations in natural hazard management, in particular those dealing with environmental and related issues and including indigenous non-governmental organisations,
- R. Strengthening the capacity of the United Nations system to assist in the reduction of losses from natural and related technological disasters, including co-ordination and evaluation of activities through the decade and other mechanisms.
