Small Wars and Insurgencies

Editors *Ian Beckett, University of Luton, UK and Thomas-Durell Young, US Army War College,
Pennsylvania, USA*

Small Wars and Insurgencies is directed at providing a forum for the discussion of the historical, political, social, economic and psychological aspects of insurgency, counter-insurgency, limited war, peace-keeping operations and the use of force as an instrument of policy. Its aim is to provide an outlet for historians, political scientists, policy makers and practitioners to discuss and debate theoretical and practical issues related to the past, present and future of this important area of both international and domestic relations.

Low Intensity Conflict & Law Enforcement addresses a range of military, security, and law enforcement issues associated with conflict short of general war. More specifically, journal articles and features assess insurgency and counter-insurgency concepts and operations; the transnational threats of narcotics trafficking and terrorism in their many dimensions; peacekeeping and peacemaking operations; security assistance, disaster relief, and civil affairs programmes; special operations; and other security issues falling under the rubric of 'low intensity conflict.'

Low Intensity Conflict & Law Enforcement is essential reading for military and law enforcement professionals, and for scholars specializing in security issues.

Relief and Rehabilitation Network

The Relief and Rehabilitation Network (RRN) was launched in 1994 by the Overseas Development Institute, in conjunction with EuronAid, to provide a mechanism for the exchange of experience and good practice between individuals and organisations working in emergencies around the world. It aims to build institutional memory and professionalism among relief practitioners, and so increase the effectiveness of humanitarian interventions.

Since its launch, the RRN has grown to include nearly 300 members - 70% field-based - in over 50 countries. The Network offers access to practical, specialist information to personnel from NGOs, bilateral and multilateral organisations, the media and academic communities, as a means of bridging the gap between headquarters and field staff and between research and practice. Members currently receive four mailings per year, in English or French, comprising: Newsletters, Network Papers and Good Practice Reviews. Contributions from members are actively encouraged, as is feedback on publications received.

International Centre for Humanitarian Reporting

Early, accurate and sustained press coverage of humanitarian crises and conflicts is vital. So is access to critical background reporting, humanitarian monitoring and contacts. For international relief professionals, policy makers, even the military.

The International Centre for Humanitarian Reporting (ICHR) and CROSSLINES Global Report seek to provide such reporting and background information.

International Centre for Humanitarian Reporting Headquartered in Geneva with a support office in Cambridge, MA. (USA), the ICHR stresses practical approaches to help decision makers, aid agencies, the military, and private sector better understand the roles of the media. Working closely with journalists but also relief professionals, private sector representatives and concerned individuals and institutions worldwide, the ICHR is in a unique position to facilitate more consistent, quality reporting of humanitarian issues through its Global Contact Network, conferences and workshops, journalist support fund, and radio outreach projects.

CROSSLINES Global Report

A leading newsjournal publishing 10 issues a year on international humanitarian relief, development and global trends, CROSSLINES Global Report seeks to provide more extensive background reporting by experienced journalists and also to serve as an independent forum for aid professionals and analysts.

Forthcoming issues in 1996 will focus on:

- Famine and food security
- Radio as public service to local populations in crises areas
- Child violence, prostitution and slavery
- Afghanistan
- The private sector in humanitarian relief
- Civilians in conflicts

CROSSLINES Special Reports

Terrorism and Political Violence

Editors David C Rapoport, University of California, Los Angeles, USA and Paul Wilkinson, University of St Andrews, UK

Terrorism and Political Violence reflects the full range of current scholarly work from many disciplines and theoretical perspectives. It aims to give academic rigour to a field which hitherto has lacked it, and encourages comparative studies. In addition to focusing on the political meaning of terrorist activity, the journal publishes studies of various related forms of violence by rebels and by states, on the links between political violence and organized crime, protest, rebellion, revolution, and human rights. A truly interdisciplinary journal, it is essential reading for all academics, decision makers and security specialists concerned with understanding political violence.

International Peacekeeping

Editor

Michael Pugh, University of Plymouth, UK

Co-editors

Michael Doyle, International Peace Academy, New York and Princeton University, USA, Åge Eknes, Norwegian Institute of International Affairs, Norway

Review Editor

James Gow, King's College London, UK

International Peacekeeping is the first refereed journal to fill the demand for analysis of peacekeeping concepts and operations. The journal examines the theory and practice of peacekeeping as traditionally understood – since Dag Hammarskjöld and Lester Pearson considered the problem of intercession by international military forces in the mid-1950s. It also offers stimulating discussion of the effect of the end of the Cold War on the concepts and functioning of intercessions authorized by the UN. The journal reflects the principle that peacekeeping is essentially a political act in which military forces, frequently in a condition of partial demilitarization, are the instruments of policy at an international level. From a broader perspective the journal also reflects debates about sanctions enforcement, monitoring of agreements, preventive deployments, international policing, protection of aid in internal disputes, and the relationship between peacekeepers, state authorities, rival factions, civilians and non-governmental organizations.

International Peacekeeping is an important source of analysis for institutes and universities with an interest in international relations, security and strategic studies, the history of the United Nations, peace research and conflict resolution. Policy-makers, officials, NGO workers, journalists and students with an interest in the United Nations and its various agencies will find this journal an invaluable forum for the discussion of current issues.

Principios Fundamentales del Movimiento Internacional de la Cruz Roja y de la Media Luna Roja

Humanidad

El Movimiento Internacional de la Cruz Roja y de la Media Luna Roja, al que ha dado nacimiento la preocupación de prestar auxilio, sin discriminación, a todos los heridos en los campos de batalla, se esfuerza, bajo su aspecto internacional y nacional, en prevenir y aliviar el sufrimiento de los hombres en todas las circunstancias. Tiende a proteger la vida y la salud, así como a hacer respetar a la persona humana. Favorece la comprensión mutua, la amistad, la cooperación y una paz duradera entre todos los pueblos.

Imparcialidad

No hace ninguna distinción de nacionalidad, raza, religión, condición social ni credo político. Se dedica únicamente a socorrer a los individuos en proporción con los sufrimientos, remediando sus necesidades y dando prioridad a las más urgentes.

Neutralidad

Con el fin de conservar la confianza en todos, el Movimiento se abstiene de tomar parte en las hostilidades y, en todo tiempo, en las controversias de orden político, racial, religioso e ideológico.

Independencia

El Movimiento es independiente. Auxiliares de los poderes públicos en sus actividades humanitarias y sometidas a las leyes que rigen los países respectivos, las Sociedades Nacionales deben, sin embargo, conservar una autonomía que les permita actuar siempre de acuerdo con los principios del Movimiento.

Voluntariado

Es un Movimiento de socorro voluntario y de carácter desinteresado.

Unidad

En cada país solo puede existir una Sociedad de la Cruz Roja o de la Media Luna Roja que debe ser accesible a todos y extender su acción humanitaria a la totalidad del territorio.

Universalidad

El Movimiento Internacional de la Cruz Roja y de la Media Luna Roja, en cuyo seno todas las Sociedades tienen los mismos derechos y el deber de ayudarse mutuamente, es universal.
