

"The World Disasters Report has a vital role in bridging the gap between the international and local level and in closing the academic and operational divide."

The Times Higher Education Supplement

A unique annual reference work on issues of global importance, the World Disasters Report 2002 focuses on reducing risk

Does development expose more people to disasters? What is the cost of failing to prepare? The tenth edition of the World Disasters Report argues that risk reduction is an essential condition for sustainable development. It examines preparedness and mitigation initiatives from disaster-prone countries across the globe. And it discusses who should take responsibility for protecting vulnerable populations from disaster, and how.

The World Disasters Report 2002 features:

- Challenges and opportunities facing risk reduction
- Success stories in disaster preparedness from Mozambique and Latin America
- Mitigating effects of global warming in Pacific island states
- Earthquake risk in south-eastern Europe
- A methodology to assess vulnerabilities and capacities (examples from Gaza/West Bank and Papua New Guinea)
- Humanitarian accountability

plus

Latest disaster and refugee data

Full-colour wall map of the most disaster-affected nations

Red Cross Red Crescent contacts

Index, photos, tables, maps, graphics

Published annually since 1993, the World Disasters Report brings together the latest trends, facts and analysis of contemporary catastrophes and their effect on vulnerable populations worldwide.

The International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies promotes the humanitarian activities of National Societies among vulnerable people.

By coordinating international disaster relief and encouraging development support it seeks to prevent and alleviate human suffering.

The International Federation, the National Societies and the International Committee of the Red Cross together constitute the International Red Cross and Red Crescent Movement.

ISBN 92-9139-082-8

9 789291 390823