

When you need communications most, you need Inmarsat

When disaster strikes, communications with the outside world are a vital necessity.

Inmarsat is the world's only global satellite system that offers instant links to virtually anywhere in the world - mobile and briefcase sized satphones and data terminals provide telephone, fax, video and data messaging through the public switched networks.

Which is why relief organisations world-wide rely on Inmarsat in emergency situations. Portable terminals can be purchased or leased through many manufacturers and equipment suppliers. And there is a wide choice of service providers and communications routes.

For more information, mail the coupon below or call Eugene Staffa at Inmarsat on + 44 71 728 1382; fax + 44 71 528 0020.

Name: _____

Title: _____

Organization: _____

Address: _____

Mail to: Eugene Staffa
Inmarsat, 99 City Road,
London EC1Y 1AX, England
Photo courtesy of Scientific Atlanta

